M. C. A., Queen's Univ., one year; did mission work in the Redwoods of Mendocino, Cal.; did much of the reading in this connection upon horseback; on returning to Can. applied for mission work in Algoma, preferring this to older settlements; since then, has laboured in this work along educ. lines, fearing that the existing methods of the Ch. were inadequate; author "Library Extension in Ont.: Travelling Libraries and Reading Camps," and "The Education of the Frontier Labourer"; has lectured on "The Duty of the State to the Frontier Labourer," "Life on the Canadian Frontier," etc.; has been called "the Jacob Riis of the lumbering, mining, fishing and railway construction camps."—188 Jarvis St., Toronto.

"Beginning life as a missionary along the frontier of our industrial expansion, he had the eye to see that lumberers, miners and construction men needed something else than sermons. He discovered that they could never be effectively reached by the routine propaganda of the church. With increasing experience a sense of their bitter need grew upon him and stung him into the desire, and finally the resolve, to create some new agency to meet that need. Slowly a plan grew up in his mind, and when he became convinced of its practicability, he abandoned the preaching ministry for the no less real and more statesman-like ministry of Camp Education."—Rev. R. J. Hutcheon (q.v.).

Toronto Univ., 1907; do. (do.) Queen's Univ., 1908; m., 1855, Ann Jean (d. Mch., 1888), d. late Mr. Sheriff Hall, Peterboro, Ont.; studied surveying and enging. in Scot.; came to Can., 1845; later, joined the enging. staff of the Northern Ry., Toronto; apptd. chief engr., do., 1857; subsequently practised his prof. in Ont., in partnership with Messrs. Ridout & Schreiber (q.v.), was later on elected a M.Inst.C.E., London, and a mem. of the Am. Soc. of C.E.; was elected an hon. mem. of the Can. Soc. C.E., 1908; in 1863, was chosen by the people of the Red River settlement (now included in the Province of Man.) to proceed to Eng. for the purpose of urging the Imp. authorities to open ry. communication between Red River and Eastern Can.; on his return from this mission, was apptd. by the govts. of Can., N.S. and N.B., in conjunction with H.M.'s govt., to conduct a survey for the first link in a ry. which would extend from the Atlantic to the Pacific within Brit. territory; of this road—the Intercolonial—he was chief engr. during its construction; meanwhile (1871) he had been apptd. engr.-in-chief to carry on the Pac. Ry. surveys; in 1872, he headed an expdn., whose results are embodied in the late Principal Grant's book, "Ocean to Ocean," which proceeded through the Rocky Mountains by the Yellowhead Pass; while engaged on the Intercol., and in the exploring operations between Ottawa and B.C. for the Pacific Ry., he carried on, at his own expense, an examination of Nfd., to ascertain the possibility of establishing a ry. service across that island; after the engr. employed by him had reported satisfactorily, he was gratefully thanked by the House of Assembly and charged by the local govt. to conduct a ry. survey from St. John's to St. George's Bay; the outcome is the road there since built and operated by the Messrs. Reid (q.v.); in 1880, owing to political exigencies, he retired from the service of the Dom. Govt.; at that date the transcontinental surveys had established the practicability of the Pacific Ry., and the means of overcoming the formidable barriers imposed by nature had been determined; construction of the work was being proceeded with at both ends and between Lake Superior and the heart of Man., in all ranging over some 2,000 miles, 600 miles were nearly completed; since then he has devoted himself to special branches of science and literature and in lending his assistance to the Govt. in an advis. capacity in various depts. of the public service; elected chancellor of Queen's Univ., 1880, and has been many times re-elected to that office, which he has now filled for more than 30 yrs.; en passant, it may be said that he has given largely of his means to the furtherance of the Univ.'s needs; in return the Univ. has not been unmindful of his interest, and, in 1903, named the new enging. building, then erected, after him; when on a visit to Eng., 1883, was asked by cable to assist in the establishment of the Can. Pacific Ry. by its present route through the Rocky Mountains; he speedily returned to Can. and made another overland journey, an account of which was given to the people in "Old to New Westminster"; this was the first through journey made in advance of the rails being laid from ocean to ocean; among the subjects which have specially engaged his study and attention is that of universal or Cosmic time; the first steps in this regard were taken by him, 1878-79, in communicating to the Can. Inst., Toronto (of which body he was one of the founders), two papers, one on "Time Reckoning," and the other on the "Selection of a Prime Meridian to be Common to all Nations, in Connection with Time Reckoning"; the great object was stated to be to make Greenwich the standard for the whole world; the Council of the Can. Inst., in publishing a fasciculus on the subject in 1885, made honourable mention of his proposal, concluding in these words: "His efforts have contributed in no small degree to the adoption of an initial meridian common to all nations, and that he has unquestionably been the initiator and principal agent in the movement for reform in time-reckoning and in the establishment of the universal day; the Inst. cannot, perhaps, better express the debt of gratitude which the civilized world owes to him in this connection than by quoting from the accompanyng paper from the pen of the distinguished Astronomer Royal of Russia, M. Otto Struve: 'It is,' writes M. Struve., 'through Mr. Fleming's indefatigable labours and writings that influential individuals and scientific societies and institutes in Am. and Europe have been won over to the cause'"; another subject which he has studied and made his own is that of the Empire-girdling chain of state cables, of which the Pacific cable is the first sec.; in 1879, he submitted to the Can. Govt. a scheme for spanning the Pacific Ocean by electric cable, which, in connection with the overland telegraph would complete the electric girdle of the globe and bring Gt. Brit., Can., Australia, New Zealand, India and South Africa into unbroken telegraph touch of each other without passing over foreign soil; since that date he has continually advocated the establishment of the work, and has written much on the subject; the proceedings of the Colonial Confs., of 1887 and 1894, give his views and arguments at length, and show how much the discussion hinged upon them; this important national work is seemingly in a fair way of becoming an accomplished fact, and if ever its history be written, his name must take a prominent place; has also sought the establishment of "a great Imp. intelligence union, as a means of promoting the consolidation of the Empire," his scheme being outlined in an address delivered before the Eighty Club, in July, 1906, but undoubtedly one of his most important works to the end indicated has been the erection of a memorial tower, at Halifax, for the purpose of commemorating the origin of representative govt. there and all the benefits which have accrued therefrom; of this tower, which it is hoped will be constructed before the close of 1911, and to which all portions of the Empire are contributing sculptured slabs to be built in the interior walls, the Rt. Hon. Jas. Bryce, Brit. ambassador at Washington, has said that there has been nothing in the world's history to compare with the object which Sir Sandford Fleming has so patriotically commemorated in this pleasing fashion; is the author of a large number of reports and papers on purely professional subjects; has also written and published; "A Great Territorial Road to B.C." (1863); "The Intercolonial; a Historical Sketch" (1876); "Short Sunday Service for Travellers," a compilation (1877); "Daily Prayers for Busy Households" (1879); "Uniform Standard Time" (1881); "A Cable Across the Pacific" (1882); "The Prime Meridian Question" (1884); "England and Canada; Old to New Westminster" (1884); "Expeditions to the Pacific" (1889); "Parliamentary vs. Party Government" (1891); "An Appeal to the Canadian Institute on the Rectification of Parliament" (1892); again appealed in 1911, when the Can. Institute resolved to inaugurate a league to take up and promote electoral reform in association with the Proportionate Representation Society of the United Kingdom; "The Meteor Flag of the Dominion" (1895); "The Establishment of a great Imperial Intelligence Union as a means of promoting the Consolidation of the Empire" (1906); "A Memorable National Epoch" (1908); and "The Beginning of the Empire" (1910); at the time of the "Trent" affair, raised a co. of the 10th Royals, Toronto, which he continued to command till 1864; now on the retired list; in recognition of his public services, was created by Queen Victoria a Companion of the order of St. Michael and St. George, 1877, and was promoted by her to be a Knight Commander of the same order, on the completion of the 60th year of Her Majesty's reign, 1897; commencing in 1876, was on several occasions presented to the late Queen Victoria, also, during his short reign and previously, to His late Majesty King Edward; more recently, has been presented to the present Sovereign and his Royal Consort; was one of four (and the only one now surviving) who saved Queen Victoria's portrait from destruction at the burning of the Parliament Buildings, Montreal, Apl. 25, 1849; in 1881, represented the Can. Inst. and the Am. Metrological Soc. at the Intern. Geog. Congress held at Venice; in 1882, was presented with the freedom of the Kirkcaldy burghs; in 1884, he represented the Dom. at the Intern. Prime Meridian Conf. at Washington; for his services on this occasion an expression of the high appreciation of Her Majesty's govt. was communicated to him through the then govt. of the day; in 1886, he was awarded the confederation med. by the Gov.-Genl. in Council, as an acknowledgment of his eminent services as an engr.; in 1887, he represented Can. (jointly with the late Sir Alex. Campbell) at the Colonial Conf. in London; in 1888, he was elected presdt. of the Royal Soc. of Can. (of which body he was chosen a Fellow on its first organization); in 1892, represented Ottawa at the Congress of the Chambers of Commerce of the Empire; in 1893, he proceeded on a special mission to Australia and Eng. in reference to the Pacific cable; in 1894, he was one of the representatives of Can. at the Colonial Conf. at Ottawa (a gathering first suggested by him); in the same year he was sent by the Can. Govt. as a special commr. to Hawaii; in 1896 he attended on behalf of the Dom. the Imp. Pacific Cable Conf. held in London; in 1901, was apptd. a mem. of the Can. Patriotic Fund Assn.; in 1906, was a del. to the 6th Congress of the Chambers of Commerce of the Empire; in 1906, was apptd. an hon. Commr. in Can. of the Intern. Expn., Christchurch, New Zealand; in 1907, became a councillor of the Can. Landmarks Assn.; in the same year, was apptd., by the Dom. Govt., a mem. of the Ottawa Improvement Comn.; in 1909 was apptd., by the Gov. in Council, a mem. of the Royal Conservation Comn.; among other positions filled by him, from time to time, have been those of a dir. of the Hudson's Bay Co. (for 25 yrs.), a dir. C.P. Ry., a councillor of the Victorian Order of Nurses, and a mem. of the literary comte. of the Can. Battlefields Assn.; has been presdt. of the Intern. Cement Co. and of the Western Can. Cement and Coal Co., and was hon. presdt. of the Can. Cement Co. until he resigned in the spring of 1911; is also a Fellow of the Geol. "He is the dean of the engineering profession of Canada. On January 7 of this year he completed his 84th year. He built the Intercolonial. He laid out for the Canadian Pacific the route by the Yellowhead Pass for which to-day three transcontinental railways are striving. He was the first man to prove the practicability of the final Canadian Pacific route through the Kicking Horse, Eagle and Rogers passes. He was the pioneer of the twenty-four-hour-day system of time reckoning. He is the father of the Pacific cable. He has been Chancellor of Queen's University for one and thirty years. And he has a few other achievements to his credit. He sits to-day in the study at Winterholme, his Ottawa residence since 1869, a hale, hearty man of 84, white-bearded, kindly, keen as ever. Around him rise great stacks of books, among the serried ranks showing long solid lines of the dark leather bindings that bespeak government reports; reports of official happenings of which he was no unimportant part. Around the grey stone walls of Winterholme are the houses of Sandy Hill, more numerous than when he first made it his abode forty-two years ago, showing a prosperity caused in no small part by the mighty works in which he has borne his share."—*Capt. Fraser, Rev. Thurlow (Presb.).

S. late Robt. and Louisa Jane (Hurdman) F.; father a native Castle Blaney, Co. Armagh, Irel., came to Can., 1837, and took part in the defence of the country at that time; youngest of 9 children; b. Cumberland, Ont., July 18, 1869; e. High Sch., Hawkesbury, Ottawa Normal Sch., Almonte High Sch., and Queen's Univ., Kingston (B.A., Gov.-Genl.'s schol., with honours in Eng. and classics, 1898); post-grad. year and univ. tutor in Eng.; studied theol., same institution (B.D., 1902); D.D. (hon.), Montreal Presb. Coll., 1911; m., July, 1901, Jane Armstrong, y. d. late Richard Fraser, Pembroke, Ont.; spent some yrs. while a student in sch. teaching; also did miscellaneous ministerial work; o. 1902; asst. pastor, Bank St. Ch., Ottawa, 1901-2 (presented with a testimonial on leaving); missionary to Formosa, as successor to famous Rev. Dr. MacKay, with special reference to the educl. work for the training of a native ministry for the Formosan Ch., 1902-4; took up and acquired a knowledge of Amoy Chinese and the Japanese languages; returned to Can., 1904, and since 1905 has been pastor at Portage-la-Prairie, Man.; apptd. chaplain (with hon. rank of capt.), 99th Regt., Apl. 1, 1910; holds that political corruption is the crying sin of Can., more unblushing and shameful than the majority of those peccadillos against which the pulpit ordinarily casts its thunders; is heartily in sympathy with the present movement towards a stronger nat. feeling in Can.; whatever allowance we make for the strong home ties to which our fathers fondly and rightly clung, we of the younger generations should be Cans., rather than Eng., Irish, Scotch, or French-Cans.; believes that if Brit. and French, Prots. and R. C.'s in Can. would study each other's history and religion, enter into greater sympathy with each other's alms and ideals, and know the good that each other has done, it would go a long way towards breaking down the barriers of national and religious differences which have existed in the past; we have been suspicious of one another because we were ignorant of one another, and ignorance always breeds suspicion; at the same time believes that the liberty necessary for this Can. nationalism is perfectly consistent with even closer Brit. connection than Can. has at present; without Brit. connection Can. would be but the fag of her none too conscientious neighbour to the south; but if we are to have the benefits of Brit. connection we must be prepared to also bear the burdens; if Can. is to be protected by Brit. armies and fleets, she must be prepared to contribute to the maintenance of these armies and fleets; if she is to have Brit. preference she must give preference in return; while Cans. doubtless have reason to complain of such British diplomacy as the Ashburton Treaty of 1842, the Oregon boundary and Alaska boundary settlements of 1846 and 1903, Brit. statesmen can also complain that our attitude to the Mother Country has been a purely selfish one of getting as much as possible and giving as little as possible; to use Rev. Dr. Rose's (q.v.) phrase, our contributions to Imperialism have nearly all been labelled "C. O. D."; in religious matters believes in the fullest unity, co-operation, and brotherhood between Christian bodies; the accentuation of the many things in which we agree rather than the few in which we differ; is a contributor to the mags.; author "Formosa under the Japanese" (1907).—Portage la Prairie, Man.; Canadian Club, do.

Gaudaur, Jacob Gill, champion oarsman.

French-Canadian descent; s. François and Jessie (Gill) G., Orillia, Ont.; b. at the Narrows, Lake Couchiching, Ont., Apl. 4, 1858; from his earliest yrs. had a strong fancy for aquatic sports; his first year in a shell was in 1879. when he rowed at Prescott, London and Sarnia in exhn. races; his first shell race was with McKen, on Toronto Bay, in the same year, which he won easily; rowed 3rd at Barrie, Hanlan and Riley dead-heating; in 1881, July 1, at Ottawa, won a race from Ross, Hosmer, Ten Eyck and Riley; at Pullman, Ill., June 23 1883, was beaten by Teemer in the consolation race in 20.14; at Lake Minnetonka, on Aug. 4, he finished behind Hanlan, Lee, Hosmer, and Hamm; in 1884, at Boston, July 4, won the 3-mile single sculls in 21.50 and the working boat event in 22.20; on Oct. 26, rowed a dead heat with Teemer; on Nov. 2, won in 20.24 at Creve Cœur Lake, Mo.; the ups and downs of the Can. sculler continued in 1885; won the 3-mile single sculls race at Boston, July 4, in 20.30, and on the same day, with Hosmer as partner, captured the double sculls; on May 25 rowed second to Teemer at New Orleans in 20.01½, and won the double with Hosmer; on June 13 defeated Hosmer at a regatta at Moline, Ill., and on the 18th defeated Teemer at Pittsburg, where Hosmer again sat with him in the winning double sculls boat; his first championship race in the doubles with Hosmer for partner was disastrous; Courtney and Conley beat them over a 3-mile course at Pleasure Island, near Albany, N.Y., for $5,000 and the title, in 17.57½; on Oct. 30, the same year, G. beat Al Hamm (5 secs.) for $1,000, 3 miles with turn, in 21.15; perhaps 1886 was the most important year of his life; on June 12, won the championship of Am. and $2,000 over a 3-mile course with turn from Teemer, at Pullman, Ill., in 21.20; again on June 26, made the best 3-mile record up to that time, 19.54, at White Bear Lake, Minn., beating Teemer and Hamm; on Sept. 18 occurred the famous race with Wm. Beach. of Australia, for the world's championship and $5,000 on the Thames, London, Eng.; G. was beaten over a 4¼-mile course in 22.29 by a short half-boat length. Rowing men who saw the contest said it was the greatest that had ever taken place in the history of the sport; on May 30, 1887, won $5,000 and defended the championship from Hanlan in 19.32, making a new record; in July, at Pullman, Hanlan won the title, finishing outside the flags in the darkness; Teemer beat Hanlan on Aug. 13, and G. was unsuccessful in his effort to win the title from the McKeesporter on Oct. 28, at Lake Maranacook, Me.; Teemer's time was 20.28 2-5 for the 3 miles with a turn; from this time G.'s engagements became very numerous, and only his important races are given from 1888 to 1896; in 1888, Aug. 3, he and McKay, of Halifax, defeated Teemer and Hamm for the double-sculling championship and $5,000, 3 miles with turn, in 19.25, at Saratoga Lake; later on in the same year the late Wm. O'Connor beat G. at Sturgeon Point, Ont., in a regatta; this was O'Connor's first brush with him; on March 3, 1889, Wm. O'Connor defeated G. on San Francisco Bay in a 3-mile race, in 19.45; on Sept. 13 the latter beat Teemer at McKeesport, but the stakes were afterwards drawn, the American claiming a foul and refusing to row; in 1890, at the Duluth regatta, July 21-26, G. made his third record, 19.31, in winning the single scull race against Teemer, Hanlan, Hosmer and others; McKay and he won the doubles, and his crew also captured the 4-oared race at the same regatta; in 1891 Hanlan and O'Connor defeated G. and McKay for the double scull world's championship at Burlington Beach, on Aug. 8, 3 miles with turn, in 18.26½; in 1892, Chas. Stephenson, the New Zealand champion, was beaten easily on Aug. 13 by G. at Orillia, over the regular 3-mile course, from the wharf to Lehman's Point and return; on Sept. 5 he and G. H. Hosmer won the double sculling championship from Hanlan and O'Connor at Charlotte, N.Y.; again, at Orillia, Oct. 15, the same result took place, the 3 miles being covered by the winners in 18.30; rowed at Austin, Texas, June, 1893; won the 3-mile with turn single scull event in 19.06, his fourth record, defeating Peterson, Stanbury, the world's champion, Hanlan, Teemer, Rogers and Ten Eyck; Hosmer and he won the doubles by 20 lengths in 18.03½, the fastest time yet recorded for the 3 miles with turn; in Nov., 1895, G. competed at the intern. regatta in Austin, Texas; his first appearance was with his bro. in the double scull race at 3 miles; the Gs. were beaten by Teemer and Haines; the time was 18.21, which equalled the world's record for the distance; on Nov. 5, Teemer beat G. in a half-mile dash; on Nov. 7, G. won the championship of the world, the Richard K. Fox trophy and $1,500, beating Rogers, Bubear and Haines; the same day, together with his bro. and Teemer and Rogers, G. competed in a 4-oared race with Bubear, Barry, Haines and Wingate; the Eng. crew won the race, which was a 3-mile one, in 17.20½, a world's record for the distance; G. also won several minor events; in 1896, competed at the intern. regatta at Halifax; likewise appeared with the Can.-Am. 4-oar crew, which succeeded in defeating Bubear's Eng. crew; his last great victory occurred Sept. 7, 1896, when he won the single scull race for the championship of the world on the Thames from Jas. H. Stanbury, the course being from Putney to Mortlake, 4 miles; G.'s time was 23.01, and Stanbury's, 23.46; in Dec., the same year, he issued a challenge offering to row any man in the world, in Am., in June, 1897, for the championship and a stake of $2,500 or $5,000 a side, and in Jan., 1897, he was challenged by Hanlan to row for the world's championship and $1,000 a side, either in Am. or Eng. waters; G. weighs about 175 pounds, and is 6 ft. high.—Orillia, Ont.

"His influence is felt everywhere."—Sir Sandford Fleming (q.v.).

"A statesman and a philanthropist in the best sense."—Lord Strathcona (q.v.).

"A man of insight, inspiration and political genius."—E. W. Thomson (q.v.).

"A man of sterling Christian character, a leader among men and one of whom Canada may well be proud."—Bishop Worrell (q.v.).

"A man of high ability, great capacity for work and a willingness to spend his strength in behalf of every good public object."—M. Gazette.

"He combines, as few people do, much business-like ability and an enthusiasm which carries everything before it."—Marquis of Lansdowne.

"No one had ever taken more pains to make himself acquainted with this country and probably not half a dozen men could be found in the Dominion who knew Canada as thoroughly."—Sir Richard Cartwright (q.v.).

"In his person, in his ideas, in his restless energy, he recalls the type of the great adventurers who sailed the Spanish main. There is about him the very aroma of the knighthood of the 16th century, whose fragrance lingers long in the corridors of time."—W. T. Stead.

"He brought to the post unusual gifts, a high sense of duty and a broad grasp of the Imperial problem in all its phases. From the outset he has recognized that Canada wishes to be regarded as an auxiliary kingdom, rather than as a mere dependency of the Mother Country. He has taken a lively and helpful interest in a number of important national movements, his tact has been unfailing, and when he comes to quit Rideau Hall he will leave behind him in this country a host of friends, and he will bear back with him to the Sovereign whom he represents the salutations of a loyal Dominion."—T. News.

"But it is as a student of Canada's resources and a prophet of her mighty destiny that Earl Grey occupies a place all his own. Few native-born Canadians have seen so much of the Dominion in a lifetime as the Governor-General has during the past six years. He has the instinct of the pioneer of large vision. The old days when Rhodesia was his care in the formative period bent his thoughts toward empire-building. The edge of civilization fascinates him. He is quite manifestly more in his element exploring the shores of Hudson Bay than in the circumscribed round of social duties attaching to his office, although his social qualities place him alongside the witty Dufferin."—T. Globe.

"It would be difficult to speak too highly of His Excellency's work in this country. His sympathies are broad, his insight keen, his energies unfailing, and he has such a love for Canada and her people as to open all hearts. Lord Grey has always stood for Canadian homogeneity and a broad-based imperialism, and he will leave a benign influence on many phases of Canadian life, both useful and ornamental. He has interested himself in the details of forestry, of mining, the fisheries, agriculture, manufacturing, art, music, language, education, the fight against tuberculosis, and a hundred other activities, and he has entered into them all with a zest that has been of itself refreshing, and has given that continued impetus which make causes successful."—M. Witness.

"During his term in Canada Earl Grey had spared no effort to bring the French and English races more closely together. He had endeavoured to promote the use of the French language by the English majority. He had promoted the formation of clubs where people of the two races could meet. He had endeavoured to make more widely known the records of French-Canadian heroes and by all these works he would be most kindly remembered by the French in Canada. His experience in the beautification and embellishment of cities had been given freely to Canada. As an instance of this, he would say that while in Montreal Earl Grey had conferred with the civic authorities as to plans for the beautification of that city and improving the conditions as to parks and dwellings for the poorer people."—Senator Dandurand (q.v.).

I 'member wan tam I be sleepin', jus' onder some beeg pine tree,
An' song of de robin wak' me, but robin he don't see me.
Dere's not'ing for scarin' dat bird dere, He's feel all alone on de worl', Wall! Ma-dam she mus' lissen lak dat too, when she was de Chambly girl!

'Cos how could she sing dat nice chanson, de sam' as de bird I was near,
Till I see it de maple an' pine tree an' Richelieu ronnin' near.
Again I'm de leetle feller, lak young colt upon de spring
Dat's jus' on de way I was feei, me, w'en Ma-dam All-ba-nee is sing!

An' after de song it is finish, an' crowd is mak' noise wit' its han'
I s'pose dey be t'inkin' I'm crszy, dat mebbe I don't onderstan',
'Cos I'm set on de chair very quiet, mese'f an' poor Jeremie,
An' I see dat hees eye it wss cry too, jus' sam' way it go wit' me.

"In the first place I desire to convey my cordial felicitations to Miss Louisa Hart, who has come to India from the Far West to undertake the noble task of upraising the sick, the suffering and the sinful of this land. On behalf of the Government, and in the name of all in this country, whether Anglo-Saxons or Indians, I ask her acceptance of our cordial greetings and best thanks. I have visited Vellore and witnessed the admirable work on which she is engaged. Miss Hart is there carrying on a labour of love, and by the devotion of scientific skill and ceaseless personal effort is bringing help and comfort and hope to the suffering and the poor. It has often been my pleasure to speak of the splendid work done in this country by Christian missions, and I know of no more conspicuous example than that of the American Mission in Vellore. It has earned the gratitude and the admiration of all of us who have eyes to see and hearts to feel, and I know that I am only expressing the opinion of all present when I say that we congratulate Miss Hart most sincerely on this recognition of her noble work, and hope that she may long live to wear the Kaiser-i-Hind medal with which she has just been presented."—*H. "And now what manner of man is he who bears upon his shoulders this Atlantean burden! The best description I ever heard of Sir Wilfrid Laurier was given to me by a very interesting Canadian personality, Sir George Ross, who was for many years Prime Minister of the Province of Ontario. 'Sir Wilfrid Laurier,' said this dour, gnarled, kindly, shrewd old Scotch-Canadian, 'is a picture gallery all in himself.' This praise—which I will always remember as witty and picturesque—gives you some idea of the impression which the appearance of Sir Wilfrid Laurier makes upon you."—T. P O'Connor, M.P.

Le Sueur, William Dawson, author; retired public servant.

S. late Peter Le S., at one time chief supdt. of the P. O. Money Order system of Can., and afterwards secy. of the Bd. of C. S. Examrs., Can., and Barbara (Dawson) Le S.; b. Quebec, Feb. 19, 1840; e. Montreal High Sch. ("Dux"), Ont. Law Sch., and Toronto Univ. (B.A. and silver med. in classics, 1863); LL.D. (hon.), Queen's Univ., Kingston, 1900; m., Sept., 1867, Annie, 2nd d. Jas. Foster, Montreal; entd. Can. C. S., 1856, and was throughout in the P. O. Dept.; was secy. of the Dept. from 1888, up to his retirement from the service, 1902; from that time has continued to live in Ottawa, where he has been hon. secy. of the Royal Soc. of Can., 1908-11, and since then V.-P. of the Society; among offices previously filled by him have been the vice-presidency of the Peace and Arbitration Soc., the vice-presidency of the Can. Soc. of Authors, the presidency of the Toronto Univ. Club, Ottawa, and the presidency of the Ottawa Lit. and Scien. Soc.; is most widely known as a literary man and a journalist; was for over 20 yrs. a regular ed. contributor to the Montreal Gazette, and afterwards, for many yrs., to the Montreal Star, and also, occasionally, to the Ottawa Citizen; his more elaborate literary productions have appeared in the Can. Monthly, the Nation, Popular Science Monthly, the Week, the Can. Mag., the North Am. Rev., the Commonwealth, the Westminster Rev., Queen's Quarterly, and other periodicals; some of these have been printed in pamphlet form; among his works, perhaps, the most important is his "Life of Frontenac" (1906), written for the "Makers of Canada" series; among his separately published essays have been those on "Ste. Beuve," "A Defence of Modern Thought," "Evolution and the Positive Aspects of Modern Thought," "Partizan Politics," "Notes on the Study of Language," "The Development of Responsible Government in Canada," etc.; "in religious matters has always inclined to the advanced or scientific sch.; believes that past ages have had many glimpses of higher truth, and that a devout attitude of mind has at all times sufficed to secure the harmony of individual life; but that the progress of knowledge and the more perfect development of human relations can alone create a true and abiding religious philosophy; opposed to the present day tendency to enlarge indefinitely the functions of govt.; believes that the absorption by the govt. of all so-called public franchises would be hostile to private initiative and tend to diminish the interest and variety of life of the community; opposed to high tariffs as being unfavorable both to general commercial enterprise and to efficiency in manufacture; believes in Imperialism only in the sense of a sympathetic union of Gt. Brit. and her colonies, not in the sense of the creation of a gigantic power for the control of world-politics."—478 Albert St., Ottawa; Rideau Club, do.
